Advanced Measurements of Responses to the Challenges of Social Skills Development in a Digital Era

The first Multiplier Events of the A.M.O.R. project have already been developed by each of the partners in their countries, and were moments to present the materials developed so far, namely a Manual of Good Practices and (digital) solutions to promote active, social and empathetic participation by young people. The catalogue of good practices is based on the practices, methods and IT resources that the partners - from Portugal, Germany, Bulgaria, Slovenia, Spain and Poland - were able to identify during the first phase of the project.

The catalogue of good practices is based on the practices, methods and IT resources that the partners were able to identify during the first phase of the project. By sharing best practices and experiences, the A.M.O.R. project aims to promote collaboration and innovation in the educational community, paving the way for a more inclusive and equitable future for all pupils. Each practice is accompanied by an exhaustive description of its main features, methodologies and results.

After the presentation of the project, there was time for questions and answers. The event was relevant to the project and essential to achieve the desired outcomes and the participants showed much interest on them and considered using them in a close future as a way to help and improve their professional action and performance.

The Multiplier Event in Germany as part of the AMOR project was organised by YES Forum and took place in Stuttgart on the 20th of April 2024. YES Forum used this setting to disseminate the project beyond own borders and wanted to win more international attention and interesting people for the project. The project, its objectives and the expected outputs were introduced to 15 youth and social workers from Germany, Belgium, and The Netherlands.

The event started with an energizer for the participants, in order to get to know each other and get in tune for working together. All participants introduced themselves and had the chance to get to know each other more.

After, they all participated in the “Step forward” activity we had prepared; after that ended, we discussed the meaning of the activity, what they learned and what they believe about privilege and how we can use it for good.

Participants were informed of the AMOR project and its activities, and were encouraged to follow along with the implementation of the project.

The Multiplier Event was successful. We had 10 participants attend and some fantastic feedback within the evaluations. It was mentioned that participants wanted to have more time to get a deeper insight into the project aims and outcomes as well as networking options with others.

Partner Organisation: MCC (Celje Youth Center)

The meeting began with a warm welcome and coffee, which allowed the attendees to settle in and network. A short introduction to the Multiplier Event was given by the project manager Katja Kolenc, who set the stage for the event activities.

The A.M.O.R. project was then presented in detail, which was followed by a brief presentation of the project partners. After a short coffee break, the event resumed with a comprehensive presentation and overview of the Good Practices Catalogue created within the project. This was followed by a free discussion regarding the catalogue and specific good practices, where participants shared their insights and feedback. After, attendees worked in pairs to reflect on the session and provide further feedback to the project team members. Participants found the good practices particularly helpful and engaged in a lively discussion about them. They noted that more time would be needed to thoroughly go through each good practice to fully grasp their potential. However, they were pleased with the content presented and expressed intentions to incorporate some of the practices into their work, especially with young people.

The final result of the event was very positive for the project as the website and the products developed by the partners were presented. The feedback from the attendees was very positive and they especially appreciated the variety and quality of the resources shown to improve the integration and inclusiveness of students in Europe. Many people attended the event and showed interest in using the materials generated in the project.

The AMOR project dissemination event aimed to share the project's achievements, insights and innovative practices with a wider audience in support of inclusive and intercultural education. The event was an opportunity for stakeholders, teachers and practitioners (total of aprox. 10 guests), to learn about the project's progress, discuss the Good Practice Catalogue and network with peers. The event was interactive and informative, encouraging active participation and exchange of ideas.

By sharing project achievements and good practices, we aimed to inspire and equip participants with the knowledge and tools to promote inclusive and intercultural education in their contexts. Interactive sessions and networking opportunities aim to foster a sense of community and encourage ongoing dialogue and collaboration between participants. We look forward to the productive discussions and valuable insights that will emerge from this event.
